Lovesick Airman Finally Picked Up After Mysterious Light Plane Flight

DALLAS (AP)—Airman Donald Keeton, picked up here today after a mysterious flight from Mississippi in a light plane, said "I just wanted to see my girl, it was kind of a crazy idea."

But his flight, which he said included evasive tactics when pursued by fighter planes and a crash landing in a swampy field, was in vain.

"I'll still date him," his girl friend said, but she asserted she felt she was still too young to marry.

She rushed into his arms at the police station and Keeton flushed and embraced her. They talked in low tones for a minute or two before she faced newsmen.

"He just walked into my room," woke me up and said, 'hi, mom,'" his mother said. "My faith was never shaken. I'm so relieved."

The 19-year-old airman, who left a suicide note before going aloft in a rented plane Thursday morning at Gulfport, Miss., was picked up at his mother's home.

"I landed the plane in a swampy field near Tyler (Tex.). There's not a scratch on it," he said. He said he had expected to make it to Dallas, but had run out of gas because of low altitude flying and evasive action.

"I didn't have any particular way to get up here," he said. "I was unable to get leave. I wanted to see my girl, it was kind of a crazy idea."

"I didn't think it would do any good to talk to her by phone, I needed to see her," he said.

Before the girl came to the station he said "the police tell me here I'll be able to see her and if I do it will be worth it for just an AWOL. I still haven't given up hope of winning her back," he said.

The object of the flight, which set off a search over two states, is pretty Doris Bowling, 17, of Dallas, his childhood sweetheart. Earlier, she said "I felt terrible" for having twice consented to marry Keeton and then changing her mind in the belief she was too young.

The airman said some people gave him a ride into Tyler and he took a bus into Dallas, arriving shortly before midnight.

Mrs. L. C. Cantrell, police dispatcher, said officers picked him up when they made a routine check at his home to see whether his mother had heard anything. An intensive search was to have resumed today.

Keeton made a brief stop at Alexandria, La., and later was sighted over Shreveport, La. He said he heard on his radio he was being tracked by Barksdale Air Force Base radar.

He told The Associated Press he was pursued for a time by three F100 jet fighters, but he evaded them by flying low up the Red River bed.

The wiry young airman, who appeared well-composed until his girl friend appeared at the station, said he left the suicide note as a ruse to gain extra time after leaving Gulfport. He said he felt the search would be directed out over the gulf in the expectation he had plunged his plane into the sea.

The airman was stationed at Keeler Air Force Base near Gulfport. Officers said he would be held for military authorities.

Senator Doubts Adams' Usefulness

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican Sen. Charles Potter of Michigan said today Sherman Adams "has lost his usefulness to the administration" unless he can account more fully for expensive favors from industrialist Bernard Goldfine.

But despite a swelling political furor over President Eisenhower's top aide it seemed likely that no further explanation would be forthcoming for the time being.

Under persistent questioning by newsmen, White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty Friday refused to go beyond Adams' written explanation Thursday to a House subcommittee that earlier produced evidence Goldfine paid some $2,000 in Boston hotel bills for Adams over a four-year period.

And Hagerty repeated that Eisenhower has complete confidence in Adams and has no intention of firing him.

Meanwhile, Goldfine was involved in two other developments:

1. THE NEW YORK Herald Tribune reported Goldfine was under investigation by the Criminal Division of the Justice Department, which it said has subpoenaed certain books and records of the New England millionaire. A spokesman for the Justice Department declined to comment on the report.

2. Sen. Frederick C. Payne (R-Maine) said he received a vicuna coat from Goldfine some time ago. He described Goldfine as a "long and close friend" who had never asked any favors. Payne said his family had exchanged gifts with the Goldfines at Christmas time.

In a letter to subcommittee Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark), Adams acknowledged he had been a hotel guest of Goldfine in Boston and Plymouth, Mass. Describing Goldfine as an old friend, Adams said he had thought Goldfine kept the hotel rooms on a permanent basis.

Although saying he had contacted two federal regulatory agencies on cases involving Goldfine, Adams said insinuations that he had sought or obtained favored treatment for his friend were unwarranted and unfair.

Hagerty refused to say whether Adams, as reported, had accepted a $700 vicuna coat or a $2,400 Oriental rug from Goldfine. Adams' letter said nothing about a coat or a rug.

Rep. Peter F. Mack (D-Ill.), who has called for Adams' resignation, said there is no special need now for the Harris subcommittee to concentrate on what favors Adams may have received.

"He has already admitted to receiving quite substantial gifts," said Mack, a subcommittee member. Mack said the point is to show that Adams intervened for his important White House job to help Goldfine—a point Mack contends is indicated by the record.

Three Injured As Wind Flips Automobile

Three persons were injured at 7:30 p.m. yesterday when wind flipped over their auto on Route 23, just north of the Logan Elm intersection.

Treated at Berger Hospital and released were Clifford Bailey, 45; Edna Bailey, 48, and Carl Kelley, 63, all of Pedro, Ohio.

Bailey told the Pickaway County Sheriff's office that they were traveling north when a "pocket of wind" gripped the car, forced it off the left side of the road, flipped it over completely—without touching the top—and it came to rest on its wheels.

"LOVER BOY" AT 86 — Frank Crawley — an 86-year-old farmer with snow on the roof but a warm heart inside — sits in a Fort Worth, Tex., court with his sixth wife, Katie, 62, who brought divorce proceedings because he had other girl friends. His previous wives divorced him because he made love "like a sailor on leave." Katie divorced him once before, but remarried him. Crawley admitted he has "slowed down, but I'm not finished yet."

Storm-Weary Ohio Expecting Fair Weather over Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Rain-drenched and storm-weary Ohioans appeared headed for a day of rest today in their week-long battle with the elements.

The Weather Bureau forecast fair skies and cool weather for most of the state. Storms Friday, which sent already rain-swollen streams to their banks, have moved southward into Kentucky.

The greatest amount of rainfall reported Friday was at Dayton where 3.25 inches fell. The downpour sent the reeding Miami River climbing again, threatening more than 1,500 residents of the Miami Shores and Miami Villa areas just south of that city.

The Dayton rain ran the city's five-day total up to 8.22 inches, five inches above the normal for the month.

Also along the raging Miami River, just south of Middletown, the Ohio Highway Patrol used row boats to evacuate a mother and her seven children who were trapped in their home.

EXTREMELY heavy rainfall was also reported in Sedalia with 2.96 and Columbus with 2.23. The Weather Bureau again posted tornado warnings Friday for first the northern part of the state and then the central section.

The only reported heavy winds, however, struck Friday morning at Lockbourne Air Force Base where two small hangars were damaged, windows were broken and two trailers upset.

A late afternoon storm with winds up to 70 m.p.h. roared through Urbana. Several roofs were blown off and garages moved off their foundations in that storm.

In Cincinnati lightning struck an elementary school, touching off a fire that destroyed the roof and top floor of the building.

The Weather Bureau there reported winds up to 70 m.p.h. and hail.

Trees and utility poles were reported down throughout the state as the saturated ground made no resistance to the high winds.

Flooding has been very light, the Weather Bureau reported.

Senators Back For Continued Labor Debate

WASHINGTON (AP)—Weary senators return to the Capitol today to push ahead with votes on a labor control bill still lacking many features urged by President Eisenhower.

In a second successive 12-hour session Friday, the senators beat back two major amendments urged by the administration, with the voting largely along party lines.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.), chief author of the bill, predicted that far-reaching GOP amendments would meet defeat today. Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas called the Senate into session two hours ahead of the usual time in an effort to win final passage by tonight. But there seemed a reasonable chance the debate would run into next week.

Forty-four new amendments were on senators' desks Friday, and only two of these were disposed of during the day. Most of the amendments were from the Republicans.

The first up for a vote today was another amendment offered by the Eisenhower administration and strongly opposed by labor.

It provides that a union shall lose its rights to be certified as bargaining agent and to use National Labor Relations Board procedures unless it files financial reports required by the bill.

Heart Attack Kills Man After Car Hits Child

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—A 62-year-old man died of a heart attack minutes after his car fatally injured a 3-year-old boy.

Police said Charles Rief collapsed Friday after he carried the injured child from the street to the sidewalk.

The youngster, Paul Tomich, died later.

Capital of Lebanon Rocks As Heavy Fighting Erupts

BEIRUT (AP)—Heavy fighting erupted today inside Beirut. It looked like a showdown battle between government and rebel forces and was by far the worst fight in the capital since the rebellion began in Lebanon 36 days ago.

At least three big battles were being fought between security forces and insurgents who are trying to overthrow the pro-Western government of President Camille Chamoun.

One of the battles was raging around the Associated Press office in the Zerif district on the edge of a Moslem quarter. The fighters were blasting away with pistols, rifles, machineguns and mortars. The most intensive fighting occurred in the area between the Associated Press office and the Presidential Palace, about 300 yards away.

Another big battle was being fought about 300 yards in the opposite direction, in the Moslem quarter of Basta, the barricaded sector used as rebel headquarters.

THE THIRD battle was raging on the city's outskirts for Ramel Prison. It was not immediately known which side had launched the first attack.

But, with U.N. observers moving into Lebanon, it could be a desperate insurgent attempt to bring down the government.

It also could be a government offensive to wipe out insurgents holed up in the Basta district. The government outlawed the three rebel political parties Friday.

In banning the opposition parties, Premier Sami Solh accused them of undermining the security of this Mediterranean republic, the playground of the Middle East.

Companion Rescued from Small Island

Glenn Forrest, Father of Five, Feared Drowned

Rescue parties today were grimly dragging the rain-swollen Scioto River north of here for the body of Glenn Forrest, 31, Route 2, who has been missing since 10:30 p.m. yesterday.

The missing man is married and has five children. He has been working on the Stevenson farm, Goosepond Road.

Forrest apparently drowned in the swirling river after he and a brother-in-law were thrown into the water when their boat capsized near the Pickaway Power Plant, just south of the Pickaway-Franklin County line.

The brother-in-law, Carl Lee Smith, 31, of 136 York St., was rescued from the river by Deputy Sheriff Dwight Radcliff and Municipal Court Bailiff Harry Coss about 11 p.m. yesterday.

Smith told Radcliff that he and Forrest went to the Mackey Ford bridge across the Scioto, on Route 762, late yesterday to try out an outboard motor of Forrest's. They put it on Smith's boat.

Smith said they cruised north on the river to the mouth of Big Walnut Creek, then went up the creek to the Route 23 bridge. There they turned around and headed back downstream.

THE MOTOR apparently ran out of gas just north of the Pickaway power plant on the Scioto. Smith said Forrest had completed filling the motor with gasoline and shoved away from a log when the ripping current caught the boat broadside, capsizing it.

Smith declared he held on to Forrest, who couldn't swim well until he got an innubrite to the struggling Forrest. By that time, Smith said, he was in trouble and started to swim for a small island, about 75 feet from the power plant shore.

When he reached the island, Forrest and the innubrite had disappeared. Smith was spotted by power plant employees who called the sheriff's office. He was rescued from the island where he was standing in water, knee-deep.

At 12:30 a.m. today the search for Forrest was postponed because of the treacherous currents of the flooding river. It was resumed at 7 a.m. by auxiliary deputies W. G. Richards and Ralph Leist.

No trace had been found of the missing man at noon today. His auto, parked along Route 762 at the Mackey Ford bridge has not been moved today.

Footless Vet Considers Self Lucky

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—He lost his feet and most of his hands in the Korean War, but Ed Reeves said today, "I'm just plain lucky."

Reeves, 26, is one of 17 handicapped students among 2,958 to be awarded degrees today in University of Illinois commencement exercises.

At 19, Reeves was an infantryman fighting the Chinese Communists at the Chosin Reservoir in December 1950. He was captured and left for dead. For two days he lay in 27-below zero cold until U.S. Marines found him.

His frozen feet and most of his hands were removed by surgery. What sort of luck was that?

"Well," said Reeves, of Wilmington, Ill., his eyes roving his compact mobile home eight years later. "Look what I've got."

He smiled at his wife, Beverly Jean, whom he married in September 1951, and his daughters, Michelle Lee, 4, and Melody Sue, who will be 2 in August.

A $9,000 fund raised by well-wishers while he lay in Percy Jones Hospital at Battle Creek, Mich., helped Reeves and his wife get a start.

He receives an unspecified amount of disability pension, and the GI Bill has paid for his schooling and part of his living expenses.

What about his handicap? "It isn't so much, I'm better off than lots of people that way."

Russians OK Nuclear Talks

East-West Parley Due July 1 in Geneva

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union has agreed to begin exploratory scientific talks in Geneva July 1 on ways to police any worldwide ban of nuclear explosions.

The Russian agreement came Friday in answer to proposals made Tuesday by President Eisenhower. Eisenhower's message avoided a flat U.S. commitment to stop testing atomic and hydrogen bombs. The West has insisted that technical talks on inspection must come first.

Russia announced in April that she was suspending nuclear tests and challenged the West to follow her lead. The Russians have consistently rejected the idea of inspection and control and have claimed the tests could be stopped by a simple declaration from the atomic powers, currently Russia, the United States, Britain and France.

The Russian note said the technical talks should be concluded in three to four weeks and plugged the Soviet position by saying the Geneva meeting should lead to a quick suspension of all tests.

THE WEST has made repeated appeals to Russia to discuss nuclear controls. Last month the 15 members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization invited Russia to join in technical talks and said they would go ahead with their own disarmament studies even if she refused.

Eisenhower proposed that scientific experts from the United States, Britain and France sit in on the talks for "our side" while the Communists could send scientists from Russia, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

Russia agreed to this. The Russians said they would be willing to have members of the U.N. secretariat help out "in a technical capacity."

Ex-Dayton Unionist Convicted of Lying

DAYTON (AP)—Walter C. Lohman Jr., 46, a former Dayton union official, was found guilty Friday of signing a non-Communist affidavit while he was a member of the Communist party.

A federal court jury convicted Lohman on two counts of lying when he signed government documents in Cincinnati in 1949. U.S. District Judge Lester Cecil will sentence him Monday. Lohman faces a maximum fine of $10,000 and five years imprisonment.

The five-day trial was the second for Lohman, a former local representative of the Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers Union, on the same charges.

Tourists, Bears All Too Curious

ASHEVILLE, N. C. (AP)—An official for Carolina Trailway buses says tourists in the Smoky Mountain National Park stop their cars when they see bears crossing the highway.

The bears stop to examine the tourists and traffic piles up. The buses sometimes are delayed as long as an hour, the official says.

Algerian Raps U.S. Aid To French 'Colonialism'

TUNIS (AP)—Spokesman for the Algerian rebels accused the United States today of standing back and watching their rebellion like a football game while arming the French team.

The spokesman charged that only the receipt of U.S. aid has enabled France to fight the rebels for 43 months.

"Give us one plane, only one civilian transport with only one of its four engines working and we will believe the United States is not supporting French colonialism," the rebel said.

The spokesman is an important official of the National Liberation Front, the spearhead of the rebellion, who cannot be identified by name.

The official repeated earlier rebel rejections of French Premier De Gaulle's offer of equal French citizenship to the Algerian Arabs and Berbers in hopes of ending the uprising. De Gaulle also promised on a tour of Algeria last week to call local elections there soon.

THE SPOKESMAN said, "Details of his politics and proposals that interest the West do not interest us at all."

Since the rebellion started in November 1954 the nine million Algerians have suffered more than 600,000 casualties of killed, wounded and missing, the spokesman said. "In light of that, it is a mockery to ask me what the people think of De Gaulle's proposal for elections."

The rebel army has grown from about 3,000 men armed with hunting rifles, knives and clubs to about 130,000 men now, the official said.

He claimed the rebels have had some airplanes, although none has been reported in operation with rebel forces.

Further details of rebel military strength were withheld by the spokesman.

Another Trial Slated for Cohen

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Ex-gambler Mickey Cohen will be retried for assaulting a federal officer.

A jury was dismissed Friday when it couldn't agree on his guilt or innocence.

The second trial was set for July 21.

"It's a dastardly thing," said Cohen. "It's a way of breaking a man's back — in this case financially. I can't afford another trial."

Cohen is charged with assaulting narcotics agent Howard Chapell. Cohen said he went to Chapell's office to inquire about a report that narcotics agents were trying to frame him.

Senator Doubts Adams' Usefulness

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican Sen. Charles Potter of Michigan said today Sherman Adams "has lost his usefulness to the administration" unless he can account more fully for expensive favors from industrialist Bernard Goldfine.

But despite a swelling political furor over President Eisenhower's top aide it seemed likely that no further explanation would be forthcoming for the time being.

Under persistent questioning by newsmen, White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty Friday refused to go beyond Adams' written explanation Thursday to a House subcommittee that earlier produced evidence Goldfine paid some $2,000 in Boston hotel bills for Adams over a four-year period.

And Hagerty repeated that Eisenhower has complete confidence in Adams and has no intention of firing him.

Meanwhile, Goldfine was involved in two other developments:

1. THE NEW YORK Herald Tribune reported Goldfine was under investigation by the Criminal Division of the Justice Department, which it said has subpoenaed certain books and records of the New England millionaire. A spokesman for the Justice Department declined to comment on the report.

2. Sen. Frederick G. Payne (R-Maine) said he received a vicuna coat from Goldfine some time ago. He described Goldfine as a "long and close friend" who had never asked any favors. Payne said his family had exchanged gifts with the Goldfines at Christmas time.

In a letter to subcommittee Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.), Adams acknowledged he had been a hotel guest of Goldfine in Boston and Plymouth, Mass. Describing Goldfine as an old friend, Adams said he had thought Goldfine kept the hotel rooms on a permanent basis.

Although saying he had contacted two federal regulatory agencies on cases involving Goldfine, Adams said insinuations that he had sought or obtained favored treatment for his friend were unwarranted and unfair.

Hagerty refused to say whether Adams, as reported, had accepted a $700 vicuna coat or a $2,400 Oriental rug from Goldfine. Adams' letter said nothing about a coat or a rug.

Rep. Peter F. Mack (D-Ill.), who has called for Adams' resignation, said there is no special need now for the Harris subcommittee to concentrate on what favors Adams may have received.

"He has already admitted to receiving quite substantial gifts," said Mack, a subcommittee member. Mack said the point is to show that Adams intervened from his important White House job to help Goldfine—a point Mack contends is indicated by the record.

Treated at Berger Hospital and released were Clifford Bailey, 45; Edna Bailey, 48; and Carl Kelley, 63, all of Pedro, Ohio.

Bailey told the Pickaway County Sheriff's office that they were traveling north when a "pocket of wind" gripped the car, forced it off the left side of the road, flipped it over completely—without touching the top—and it came to rest on its wheels.

Asked at a news conference if he and Nixon had lost the argument to Secretary of the Treasury Anderson and the Federal Reserve Board, Mitchell said:

"I'll say this, Vice President Nixon and I said publicly on several occasions we favored a tax cut. The administration has not favored one."

In another economic development, the Labor Department reported that unemployment among workers insured for jobless benefits dropped during the week ending May 31 for 65,300 to the lowest level since Jan. 4.

The second trial was set for July 21.

"It's a dastardly thing," said Cohen. "It's a way of breaking a man's back — in this case financially. I can't afford another trial."

Cohen is charged with assaulting narcotics agent Howard Chapell. Cohen said he went to Chapell's office to inquire about a report that narcotics agents were trying to frame him.

Companion Rescued from Small Island

Glenn Forrest, Father of Five, Feared Drowned

Rescue parties today were grimly dragging the rain-swollen Scioto River north of here for the body of Glenn Forrest, 31, Route 2, who has been missing since 10:30 p.m. yesterday.

The missing man is married and has five children. He has been working on the Stevenson farm, Goosepond Road.

Forrest apparently drowned in the swirling river after he and a brother-in-law were thrown into the water when their boat capsized near the Pickaway Power Plant, just south of the Pickaway-Franklin County line.

The brother-in-law, Carl Lee Smith, 31, of 136 York St., was rescued from the river by Deputy Sheriff Dwight Radcliff and Municipal Court Bailiff Harry Coss about 11 p.m. yesterday.

Smith told Radcliff that he and Forrest went to the Mackey Ford bridge across the Scioto, on Route 762, late yesterday to try out an outboard motor of Forrest's. They put it on Smith's boat.

Smith said they cruised north on the river to the mouth of Big Walnut Creek, then went up the creek to the Route 23 bridge. There they turned around and headed back downstream.

THE MOTOR apparently ran out of gas just north of the Pickaway power plant on the Scioto. Smith said Forrest had completed filling the motor with gasoline and shoved away from a log, when the ripping current caught the boat broadside, capsizing it.

Smith declared he held on to Forrest, who couldn't swim well until he got an innertube to the struggling Forrest. By that time, Smith said, he was in trouble and started to swim for a small island, about 75 feet from the power plant shore.

When he reached the island, Forrest and the innertube had disappeared. Smith was spotted by power plant employees who called the sheriff's office. He was rescued from the island where he was standing in water, knee-deep.

At 12:30 a. m. today the search for Forrest was postponed because of the treacherous currents of the flooding river. It was resumed at 7 a. m. by auxiliary deputies W. G. Richards and Ralph Leist.

No trace had been found of the missing man at noon today. His auto, parked along Route 762 at the Mackey Ford bridge has not been moved today.

Footless Vet Considers Self Lucky

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—He lost his feet and most of his hands in the Korean War, but Ed Reeves said today, "I'm just plain lucky."

Reeves, 26, is one of 17 handicapped students among 2,958 to be awarded degrees today in University of Illinois commencement exercises.

At 19, Reeves was an infantryman fighting the Chinese Communists at the Chosin Reservoir in December 1950. He was captured and left for dead. For two days he lay in 27-below zero cold until U.S. Marines found him.

His frozen feet and most of his hands were removed by surgery.

What sort of luck was that? "Well," said Reeves, of Wilmington, Ill., his eyes roving his compact mobile home eight years later. "Look what I've got."

He smiled at his wife, Beverly Jean, whom he married in September 1951, and his daughters, Michelle Lee, 4, and Melody Sue, who will be 2 in August.

A $9,000 fund raised by well-wishers while he lay in Percy Jones Hospital at Battle Creek, Mich., helped Reeves and his wife get a start.

He receives an unspecified amount of disability pension, and the GI Bill has paid for his schooling and part of his living expenses. What about his handicap? "It isn't so much, I'm better off than lots of people that way."

Steel Firms Decry Stall In SUB Hearing

Intervenor Decline To Speed Up Filings Before High Court

YOUNGSTOWN (AP) — Steel companies involved in Supplemental Unemployment Benefits (SUB) cases before the Ohio Supreme Court are hoping that intervenors in the proceedings will, "in accordance with their previous commitment," file briefs promptly.

But the chance of such a move in time to bring a decision before fall seemed as slim as ever. The Ohio Information Committee, which is sponsor of the intervenors, already turned down a similar speedup request from Gov. C. William O'Neill.

The steel companies (U.S. Steel, Republic, Jones Laughlin and Youngstown Sheet & Tube) issued a statement Friday which said: "When the intervenors were permitted to intervene by stipulation entered into by all counsel, it was distinctly understood their participation in the litigation would at no stage delay the clearly stated desire of the main parties to get an early determination of issues, even if that meant recourse to the highest court in the state."

"HAVING NOW reached that court, it is unfortunate that counsel for the intervenors, who up to this point have studiously lived up to the spirit and letter of the original understanding, would interpose a technical objection to a prompt determination of this important issue by the Supreme Court of Ohio, especially since the basic issue has been thoroughly and completely briefed in the lower courts."

Fred J. Milligan, executive secretary of the Ohio Information Committee, was tagged by Gov. O'Neill Friday as one who "is preventing the court from hearing it (the SUB case) when all interested parties are ready to have it heard and decided."

Milligan, whose organization includes a number of small industrial and commercial employers, also was mentioned by name in the steel companies' statement. To O'Neill he replied: "The sole purpose of the Ohio Information Committee is to sustain the decision of the voters of Ohio who rejected SUB by a vote of 2-1 in 1955; the Ohio Legislature which rejected SUB in 1955 and 1957 and the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation which rejected SUB in 1956 and 1957."

"We cannot sustain those decisions by waiving our rights. Consequently, the governor's statement will not change our plans."

To the steel companies' statement, Milligan responded that the normal 40-day filing period for Supreme Court briefs was a basic right and the intervenors "have never at any time agreed to waive their basic right."

"If the Supreme Court felt the intervenors were delaying so as to jeopardize the interests of the case, the court could have asked to shorten the time to file briefs," Milligan contended.

Speedy Driver Pays Fine In Court

A 100-mile-plus speeder, driving while under suspension, received stiff justice this morning in Circleville Municipal Court.

William R. McKinley, 21, Williamsport, was spotted on Route 22 early this morning at the intersection of Route 762 by Ohio State Patrolman Gene Miller. The patrolman said McKinley was traveling at an excessive rate of speed.

Miller gave chase in which he clocked McKinley driving 110 miles per hour at one time. He was apprehended at 5:20 a.m. when he stopped at the Route 22 intersection on the Circleville cloverleaf.

McKinley stopped so quick that Miller, who was close behind him, was forced to go up over the berm and come to a halt on the grass.

McKINLEY was fined $50 and costs for traveling 110 miles an hour in a 60 mile zone. An additional fine of $100 and costs and a two-day jail term, for driving while his license was suspended, was also levied.

Also appearing in court was Robert Cross, 49, 422 Watt St. He was fined $100 and costs, sentenced to the county jail for three days and had his driver's license suspended six months for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicants. He was arrested by city police.

Evangelist Chides People's Excuses

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Billy Graham preaches the last evening sermon tonight in his seven-week crusade at the Cow Palace.

Graham preached Friday night to a capacity crowd of 16,500 on the excuses people give for not "making a decision for Christ."

There are no valid ones in the sight of God, he said.

God's forgiveness abounds even more than the sins of man, he declared, so there is no excuse for saying one has sinned too much, or that one has too much to give up.

To say "not now, but some other time" is not to live each day of your life as though it's the last, as you should," Graham said.

Methodist Preacher Sees Future for Religion on TV

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP) — The fact that there are 42 million TV sets in America is a big challenge to the Rev. W. Carlisle Walton Jr.

"If we can come into the home with good religious telecasts, we can make a tremendous religious impact upon the people of our land," he says.

The Rev. Mr. Walton, pastor of Raleigh's Longview Methodist church, was named recently to the new post of director of television ministry development of the Methodist Church's Television, Radio and Film Commission with headquarters in Nashville, Tenn.

The Rev. Mr. Walton has dabbled in the field as a member of the commission for the past four years, so he has some ideas of what religious television should seek to accomplish.

"Religious television," he says, "is a projection of a pastor from the pulpit for the church and an attempt to reach the unchurched.

"The significant thing is this: there are about 50 million homes with about 42 million television sets in the United States. Each runs about six hours a day.

"That, coupled with the fact that a picture is worth a thousand words, promises a great future for religious television. Actually, the sky's the limit."

To accomplish its purpose, the Rev. Mr. Walton believes, religious television must make the viewer identify himself with the persons on the screen.

If this is done adeptly, he says, it can focus immediacy and authenticity on theory and make the concepts of religious teaching live and breathe for the viewers.

The Methodist TV commission currently is planning a new television series of 13 installments, he called "Talk Back." It is scheduled for release in October.

The first part of the program will be devoted to dramatizations of minor crises faced almost daily by typical American families.

Two similar Methodist series, called "The Pastor" and "The Way," already have chalked up 3,600 hours of showing time on stations throughout the country.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Buddy was going to the circus today, but he woke up with the sniffles this morning and the whole thing had to be called off!

While grown-ups learn to shrug off disappointments like that, it isn't easy for a child. Buddy's mother will soon come to the rescue with a special taffy pull or a favorite story-reading session, and that will help cushion the blow.

But there will be times when Buddy will have to stand up to far greater tests than this, and when he will have to take far greater disappointments in stride. That's one of the reasons his mother has started taking him to Church and Church School. It isn't that the Church serves as a cushion in times of stress... rather, it stands as a pillar of strength, lending support to all who come within it.

Dr. Fricke Will Give Sermon At Trinity Lutheran Church

Strauss Resigns AEC Post

The resignation of Lewis L. Strauss as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission marks a major event in government, and can be expected to be followed by some significant changes in policy.

It is a measure of the vigor and ability of Strauss that this can be said. Strauss was originally appointed to the AEC by President Truman in 1946, serving until 1950. He was appointed chairman by President Eisenhower in 1953 and has been pow-

Social Security Hike

Rated as having a good chance to be passed by Congress at this session is a bill providing for liberalized social security payments. Proposals range from a 10 per cent increase across the board to a boost of maximum payments from the present $108.50 per month to $188. The scale in other brackets would be lifted accordingly.

It is expected that the bill that finally passes will be nearer the lower proposed increase than the higher one. This will call for more revenue.

At present employers and employes

Grasshoppers and Boxcars

Well, summer has officially arrived. The political summer, that is. The annual cry has gone up in Kansas. Too many grasshoppers and too few boxcars.

Now is the time when every politician can prove how much he loves the farmer by appealing to Washington, D. C., for help to combat these twin scourges of the annual wheat harvest season. Governor Docking of Kansas has already appealed to Washington for aid in combating grasshoppers.

Reds Now Have TV Commercials

The wily Russians finally pounced upon another device of the capitalist U. S.—the television commercial.

Russian TV programs traditionally have been interspersed with nothing more Madison Avenue than an occasional plea for viewers to put their money in state banks, to prevent fires, and the like.

Now abruptly they are being exhorted to buy porridge—yum-yummy—for their babies, to supply nylons for the women folk—yoo-hoo—and to do other things more or less in keeping.

Why this turning to the TV fashions of the West? Who can fathom the Russian mind? Perhaps at last they have learned of the usual reaction of television watchers erful enough in his own right to mold the AEC to his image in the years since. He has been able to get done what he wanted done.

The controversy has arisen from those who disapproved of his aims. Strauss has been a conservative bulwark—opposing public power efforts by the AEC and blocking the sharing of atomic secrets with other nations. He has been a major contender against disarmament agreements providing solely for suspension of atomic tests.

each contribute 2¼ per cent of payroll on the first $4,200 of income. More revenue will be obtained by increasing the tax rate or by advancing the base from $4,200 to $4,800 a year—or both.

Congress has formed the habit of liberalizing social security regularly. But anyone tempted to cheer over this trend should reflect that higher payments will have to be paid for. Eventually, as the elderly and the dependents increase in numbers, throwing a bigger burden on earners and employers, taxes may rise to astronomical proportions.

The problem may be a little worse this year than usual, with enough 'hoppers per square yard in certain areas to constitute an infestation. And the bumper wheat crop in prospect will obviously make the shortage of boxcars to carry it away more acute than usual in some areas.

But only the naive are taken in by the concert of anguish arising from the politicians. It is all too noticeable that the chorus is much the loudest in election years.

to commercials in the land of their origin.

The swift raids on refrigerators and the other excursions so many make to avoid the monotony of oft-heard spiels may have struck them as a by-product of commercials that Russia can use. After all, a well-fed comrade should be a contented comrade.

Wily schemers, those Russians.

Courtin' Main

Would restoration of the old-time summer hammock cancel the need for tranquilizers?

Age of Science and Blondes

I saw an advertisement in "The Washington Post and Times Herald," which marks The New Age. It not only evokes the question, "What are we coming to," it tells us. This is the advertisement:

"Waitresses, blonde. Must be 21 to 35 years old, 5' 4" to 5' 8" tall, 34-24-34, or better. Experience desirable. . ."

Precisely what is the work that a blonde can do that a brunette or a red-head cannot do? Is it a question of decor? Are waitresses hired because they can carry soup without spilling it down the customer's back or because they blend into the color of the wallpaper?

In this age of science, when man can do everything, any gal with a few extra dollars can be a blonde if she chooses and get a job as a waitress. However, this advertisement does not say what kind of blonde is preferred. There are as many kinds of blondes as there used to be political parties in France.

A natural blonde is very rare indeed and most beautiful when found. A strawberry blonde used to be fashionable when Irish girls still had some of the old world about them. And then there is the mousy, greyish blonde that gives an air of humility.

The age range in this advertisement is wide. A girl of 21 nowadays is really a chick; whereas 35 is, for a woman, the approach to middle age. These days, crow's feet can be removed by remedial plastic surgery; hair by electrolysis; character by make-up; and the eyes can be perverted by various devices.

Thus, when the swain gazes

Fly Your Flag Every Day

By GROVER BRINKMAN
Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper

It is your duty, as an American, to display the United States flag on Saturday, June 14, the day set aside in its honor. Most of us do.

However, did you know that U. S. Public Law 829, passed by the 77th Congress, states that the American flag should be displayed every day—except in inclement weather? If folk abided by the law, the country would have a Mardi Gras appearance, right around the calendar.

Although we're not that patriotic-minded, we do display the flag on various days, during the year. The President has designated no less than 16 days of the year as "special" days to unfold Old Glory. Here they are:

New Year's Day—Jan. 1; Inauguration Day—Jan. 20; Lincoln's Birthday—Feb. 12; Washington's Birthday—Feb. 22; Army Day—April 6; Easter Sunday—variable; Mother's Day—second Sunday in May; Memorial Day—May 30; Flag Day—June 14; Labor Day—first Monday in September; Constitution Day—Sept. 17; Columbus Day—Oct. 12; Navy Day—Oct. 27; Veterans' Day—Nov. 11; Thanksgiving Day—fourth Thursday in November; Christmas Day—Dec. 25.

Also on such other days as may be proclaimed by the President of the United States; the birthdays of states (dates of admission); and our state holidays.

The official name of America's national flag, of course, is the Stars and Stripes. However, it is also known as Old Glory, the Red, White and Blue, and the Star-Spangled Banner. The Army refers to the flag, simply, as the Standard or Colors. The Navy is even more brief: the U. S. Ensign.

So many of us, though, fly it wrong! Not intentionally, of course, but just through ignorance. The rule is to place the blue field, or union, to the right if flying vertically; to the left if flying horizontally. At no time should the flag be allowed to touch the ground. Don't use it as a decoration—on your automobile, or in commercial advertising.

Never display or store your flag in such a way as to get it dirty. But if it does become soiled, it is permissible to launder it carefully. Fortunately most flags are washable—being made from cotton sheeting, cotton bunting, wool, nylon, or a nylon-and-wool blend called nylanin. Wash the flag carefully, in soapsuds and water. Rinse it, then hang it on the clothesline as correctly as you would for display.

Consider yourself lucky that you don't have to handle the largest flag of all: it flies over the George Washington bridge in New York and requires 20 men to raise it.

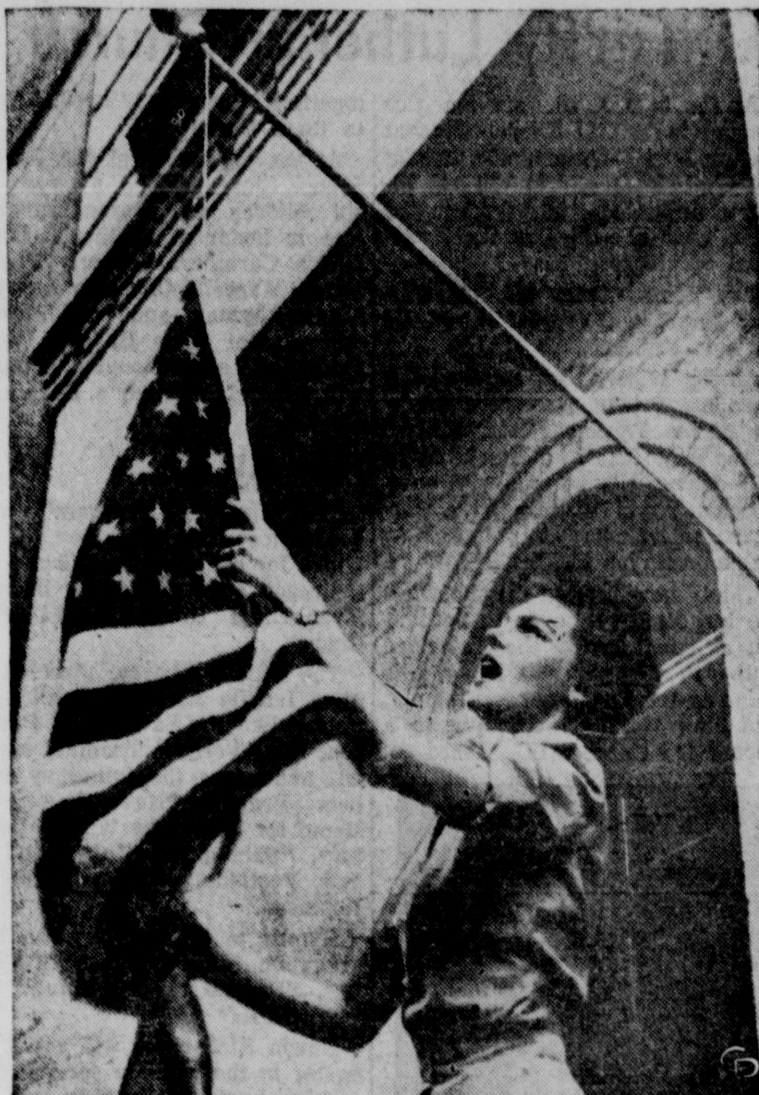

It is interesting to note that women have always played an important part in the history of our country's flag. Betsy Ross is well known as the creator of the first Stars and Stripes.

Strauss Resigns AEC Post

The resignation of Lewis L. Strauss as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission marks a major event in government, and can be expected to be followed by some significant changes in policy.

It is a measure of the vigor and ability of Strauss that this can be said. Strauss was originally appointed to the AEC by President Truman in 1946, serving until 1950. He was appointed chairman by President Eisenhower in 1953 and has been powerful enough in his own right to mold the AEC to his image in the years since. He has been able to get done what he wanted done.

The controversy has arisen from those who disapproved of his aims. Strauss has been a conservative bulwark — opposing public power efforts by the AEC and blocking the sharing of atomic secrets with other nations. He has been a major contender against disarmament agreements providing solely for suspension of atomic tests.

Social Security Hike

Rated as having a good chance to be passed by Congress at this session is a bill providing for liberalized social security payments. Proposals range from a 10 per cent increase across the board to a boost of maximum payments from the present $108.50 per month to $188. The scale in other brackets would be lifted accordingly.

It is expected that the bill that finally passes will be nearer the lower proposed increase than the higher one. This will call for more revenue.

At present employers and employees each contribute 2 1/4 per cent of payroll on the first $4,200 of income. More revenue will be obtained by increasing the tax rate or by advancing the base from $4,200 to $4,800 a year—or both.

Congress has formed the habit of liberalizing social security regularly. But anyone tempted to cheer over this trend should reflect that higher payments will have to be paid for. Eventually, as the elderly and the dependents increase in numbers, throwing a bigger burden on earners and employers, taxes may rise to astronomical proportions.

Grasshoppers and Boxcars

Well, summer has officially arrived. The political summer, that is. The annual cry has gone up in Kansas. Too many grasshoppers and too few boxcars.

Now is the time when every politician can prove how much he loves the farmer by appealing to Washington, D. C., for help to combat these twin scourges of the annual wheat harvest season. Governor Docking of Kansas has already appealed to Washington for aid in combating grasshoppers.

The problem may be a little worse this year than usual, with enough 'hoppers per square yard in certain areas to constitute an infestation. And the bumper wheat crop in prospect will obviously make the shortage of boxcars to carry it away more acute than usual in some areas.

But only the naive are taken in by the concert of anguish arising from the politicians. It is all too noticeable that the chorus is much the loudest in election years.

Reds Now Have TV Commercials

The wily Russians finally pounced upon another device of the capitalist U. S.—the television commercial.

Russian TV programs traditionally have been interspersed with nothing more Madison Avenue than an occasional plea for viewers to put their money in state banks, to prevent fires, and the like.

Now abruptly they are being exhorted to buy porridge—yum-yummy—for their babies, to supply nylons for the women folk—yoo-hoo—and to do other things more or less in keeping.

Why this turning to the TV fashions of the West? Who can fathom the Russian mind? Perhaps at last they have learned of the usual reaction of television watchers to commercials in the land of their origin. The swift raids on refrigerators and the other excursions so many make to avoid the monotony of oft-heard spiels may have struck them as a by-product of commercials that Russia can use. After all, a well-fed comrade should be a contented comrade.

Wily schemers, those Russians.

Age of Science and Blondes

By George Sokolsky

I saw an advertisement in "The Washington Post and Times Herald," which marks The New Age. It not only evokes the question, "What are we coming to," it tells us. This is the advertisement:

"Waitresses, blonde. Must be 21 to 35 years old, 5' 4" to 5' 8" tall, 34-24-34, or better. Experience desirable."

Precisely what is the work that a blonde can do that a brunette or a red-head cannot do? Is it a question of decor? Are waitresses hired because they can carry soup without spilling it down the customer's back or because they blend into the color of the wallpaper?

In this age of science, when man can do everything, any gal with a few extra dollars can be a blonde if she chooses and get a job as a waitress. However, this advertisement does not say what kind of blonde is preferred. There are many kinds of blondes as there used to be political parties in France.

A natural blonde is very rare indeed and most beautiful when found. A strawberry blonde used to be fashionable when Irish girls still had some of the old world about them. And then there is the mousey, greyish blonde that gives an air of humility.

The age range in this advertisement is wide. A girl of 21 nowadays is really a chick; whereas 35 is, for a woman, the approach to middle age. These days, crow's feet can be removed by remedial plastic surgery; hair by electrolysis; character by make-up; and the eyes can be perverted by various devices.

Thus, when the swain gazes into the starlit eyes of his lady-love, he cannot tell whether the sparkle is from the soul or from a shot of stuff advertised on TV as the solution of all human problems.

Now, it may appear that one like myself who writes about great subjects, like de Gaulle and Eisenhower and Khrushchev and how to solve the problems of disappearing gold, should not grow excited about waitresses and what a girl is required to be to enter the art of carrying a dish of Swiss steak from a kitchen to a table.

But the truth is that it is in small things that one observes the trend of the times and when a female is measured like a horse, it is a kind of evidence that this is an age when external matters matter more than the souls of men and women.

Just think what it means to civilization that this slinger of bread puddings and gelatin and such must be 5' 4" to 5' 8" tall, no more, no less, and that she must have bodily measurements of "34-24-34 or better." What puzzles me is the "or better." What is better?

I wonder how many men who have been married to the same wife for years and years know what her measurements are! Even in the Circassian slave market, where men bought women for their harems, they did not measure them, as though for a shroud, although they might have looked into their mouths to see whether their teeth were still there or is that the way a horse is bought?

One thing omitted from these measurements is the size of the hand. It strikes me that if a girl is to carry a load of victuals on a tray or otherwise, she must have a powerful pair of hands, or does a waitress no longer need strength, only fortitude?

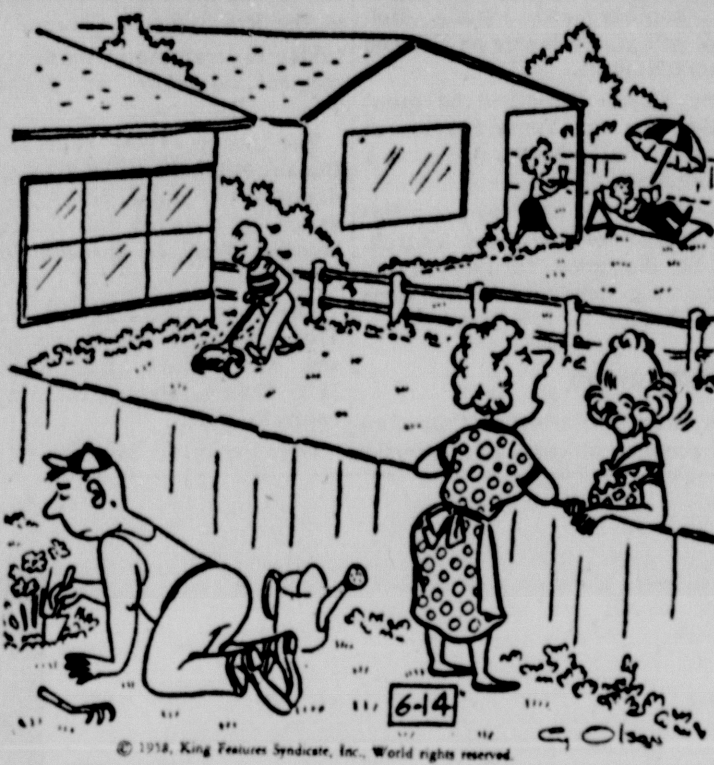

We have moved far from the modesty of an older generation when legs were called limbs and when the sight of a female ankle sent shivers up the spine of a gangling youngster. We have moved very far from that, but in what direction? That is really the question.

A young lady once asked me whether I believed in progress and I was forced to reply, "In what direction?" A wise man, perhaps one of the wisest, said to me recently, "All political parties have disappeared all over the world. That will produce tyrants. Thus the wheel of life turns, but it is on the same old axle." Is that progress?

It used to be said in World War I that some nations shouted in their own tongues, "Advance! Advance!" as they marched backward. It was not hypocritical. They had merely turned around and therefore backward became "Forward march!"

These measurements of a prospective waitress sure started me off.

If the youngster must quietly view puzzling adult shows each evening, he is placed under an inner tension that stimulates growth of the fingernail biting habit.

Obviously, the solution to this particular phase of the problem is to permit the kids to watch shows they like, or to let them do something else while you are engrossed in an adult program.

A child is not likely to develop any nervous habits if his young life is happy and peaceful and he is not placed under any great strain. And whether you think so or not, being quiet and watching TV program he doesn't like is a real strain for any youngster.

Most parents, I'm afraid, try to manage their children too thoroughly. Keep a check on him for safety's sake, of course, but give him enough freedom so he can carry out some of his own ideas.

To prevent development of the nail biting habit, be sure your youngster keeps actively busy. Best thing is to give him something to do with his hands.

Keep his nails in good condition, short and smooth and with no hangnails. Then there is less temptation for biting. For little girls, you might try putting a little polish on the nails. This gives them pride in their nails and might prevent the nail biting.

Tops in Tables

Melamine is a magic word! It's like the real thing, especially if it has been processed with a satin finish.

All types of tables are getting the plastic - top treatment. The majority of them are nicely priced, but a few trend - setters are in the much-money bracket.

We especially like a group created by Freda Diamond, a designing woman who knows just what the lady of the house is apt to like and need. Her tables are for the young homemaker's set's budget. Each is a practical piece that does a job.

One end table, for example, has a shelf that takes magazines (and where to put them is always a problem). It would also hold books or a radio.

It's slim and sleek, lightly scaled so as not to look bulky in even the smallest of apartments.

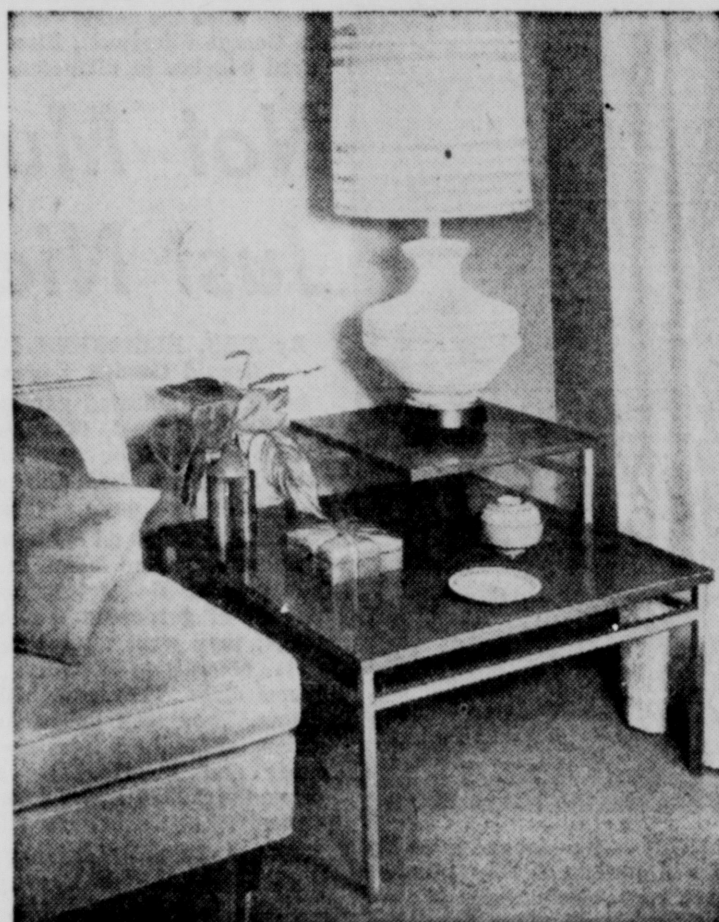

Another Diamond design is a two-tiered table. The top tier is just large enough to hold a lamp. The bottom tier is a full-size table top.

There's no waste space here. The entire table top is free to hold a plant, cigarette box, ash tray, lighter, whatever you like, since the lamp is on its own tier.

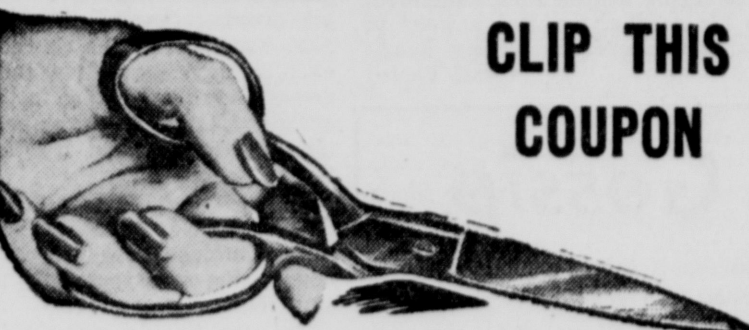

Also noteworthy is a plastic-topped table by Norman MacGregor. It's a trend - setter, so you pay for its first-of-a-kind design. Mr. MacGregor has set his table on large brass ball casters, so it can be moved around. The top's melamine plastic with a white base. It's a pretty piece, and so useful, too.

SPACE FOR magazines is provided by a shelf on a sleek end table with an airy look.

TWO-TIERED table is doubly useful. The top tier takes a lamp, leaving lower tier free to hold other accessories.

Green Thumb Men Gain Envy, Respect of Gal Gardeners

DOYLE CUPP AND DUSTER — Doyle Cupp, 1231 S. Pickaway St., dusts his quality roses every 14 days. He likes to dust at night time. He has 53 hybrid teas and three climbers. He sometimes has a young assistant a 5-year-old who takes an interest in the roses. Cupp, who is a member of the Church of the Brethren tries to provide a bouquet of roses for the church altar each Sunday. Cupp works at the Container Corporation. Like many other rose growers, Cupp uses his roses for foundation planting to give color to the front yard. (Staff Photo)

ROSE FANCIER — Bernard Trecker, Replogle Construction Co., takes a little time to snip roses. The Treckers live on North Court St., and successfully combine rose growing and dog raising. Trecker's dogs have won many trophies. He's so busy showing the dogs he does not exhibit roses. But he could if he wanted to. Trecker beats rose pests to the draw. His theory is "Spray before they (the pests) get to the roses. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure". Incidentally, Trecker admits he has just about turned over the roses to his wife. He's almost too busy to care for the 165 plants. For three years however the rose garden was his. (Staff Photo)

ROSES AND GROCERIES — J. W. Wolfe, grocerman at S. Clinton and Mill Sts., is a rose fancier of the first order. Besides selling groceries and supervising his trailer park, Wolfe spends his time rose growing. He plants roses in his front yard as well as behind his house. Wolfe does not label the roses but he has a regular spraying program. When he built his home he hauled in dirt from the river bottoms and as soon as he can "get shut" of horseweeds and artichokes he believes he'll have the best soil possible. Wolfe looks at roses in catalogues and if one appeals to him he orders it. At present he has 28 roses both hybrid teas and climbers. He plans to order more when the notion strikes him. He recently took a bouquet of roses to George Foreman, First National Bank, with blossoms that measured 6-inches in diameter. (Staff Photo)

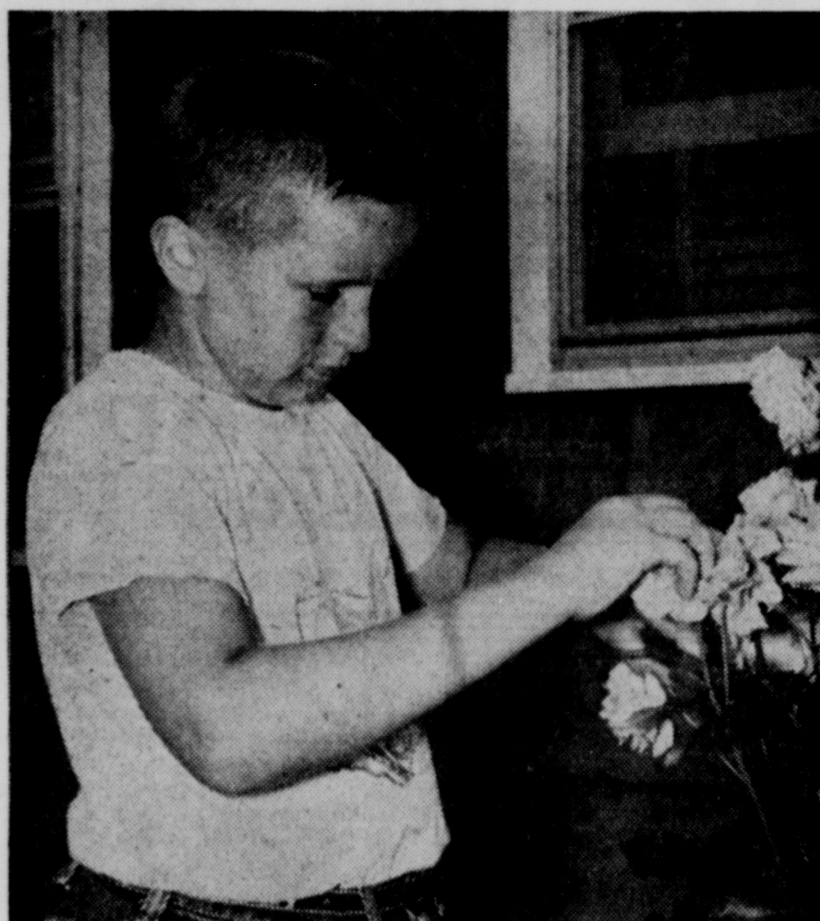

TIME-TAKING ROSES — Lloyd Fischer, N. Pickaway St., spends all his extra time growing roses and gardening. He has some choice shrubs, a dark red wigelia that was blooming along with the roses. A thornless rose, which he grew from a slip, covered his brick fireplace with hundreds of blossoms. His hybrid teas were blooming in the backyard while most of the floribundas were in a bed along the driveway. Fischer is a meticulous gardener, thinks it pays to follow a regular program of spraying and fertilizing. He does almost all the work. (Staff Photo)

SNIPPING DEAD BLOSSOMS — Handy Hatfield, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Hatfield, Atwater Ave., takes gardening chores in his stride. The gardener of the family, he takes charge of the roses. He has a regular spraying program, uses Watkins All-Purpose Dust. He has a test garden where is growing roses for Jackson and Perkins. Later he will report on the performance of the roses. A 4-H Club member, he is the secretary of his club. Handy has a problem. The family will move to a new home in July and that will mean moving the test roses as well as other plants. He already has some of his plants in pots ready for the new garden. (Staff Photo)

ERVIN KOCHER — VEGETABLE GARDEN — We stopped in at 206 S. Pickaway St., to tell Kocher that his American Beauty Climber was about the prettiest rose we had ever seen. Kocher uses it as a screen to give shade to his front porch. There were many thousands of blossoms on his climber. In fact it did provide a screen of roses from the ground to the top of the porch. We ended up in Kocher's vegetable garden after looking at the carnations, peonies, sweet William, fern bed and dahlias. Kocher raised his roses from slips. A carpenter by trade, one of his jobs now is caring for the John Eshelman, 11-acre yard. He has blueberries in his garden, too. Not a weed in his vegetable patch. The reason is that Kocher is mighty handy man with the cultivator. (Staff Photo)

Not Much Noise, Just Nice Flowers

By MRS. ELIZABETH JONES
Herald Garden Editor

In 1937 an amusing garden book was published. It was called "Adam's Profession and Its Conquest by Eve". And the garden club ladies took quite a panning.

Gentle ridicule, however, failed to stop the ladies in their newly aroused interest in the pursuit of gardening. Tooth and tongue, they went after the business of raising flowers. They joined clubs. They put on flower shows. They took to the art of arranging. In fact, from the publicity and fanfare, one might think the ladies had taken over entirely.

Not so! Today's garden page is respectfully dedicated to Circleville men and their gardens. Quietly, easily and with amazing success, the men have gone about their gardening.

Men garden for enjoyment. . . plain, simple enjoyment. Some enjoy growing flowers in order to have bouquets for the church altar each Sunday. Some grow them because they like basking in the color and fragrance of a beautiful flower garden. . . and it's against the rules to pick.

TWO MEN gardeners successfully combined rose growing and dog raising — a seemingly impossible feat!

But one thing's for sure! The men garden because they want to, because it's fun and not in one instance because they felt that they had to have flowers to be a big wheel in the garden club.

Few of them expressed a desire to exhibit flowers at a show. "Too much like work!" one gardener said. Few of them showed any interest in a garden club for men.

But to the man, their gardens were under control. Not one place did we see where the weeds had gotten the best of the flowers. (The garden editor is always sympathetic to a garden in such a dilemma)

Men garden with a quiet ease. Their approach is scientific. Nobody seems to be biting off more than he could chew.

Do they have help from their wives? Some of them do. Lots of help! Almost all the wives were given the special task of picking off the withered blooms — a task the men seemed to dislike. One man had turned over the whole garden to his wife. He dreamed up the idea and planted the roses — now it's up to her. She is enjoying it, too.

UNDOUBTEDLY the favorite flower with the men in Circleville is roses. They are, in short, roseville men and their gardens. Quietly, easily and with amazing success, the men have gone about their gardening.

So today we women give you the men and their gardens. We dedicate the page with respect — and with envy.

SCHWARZ AND THE ROSES — Christian Schwarz, 147 Watt St., started his rose garden in 1943. He now has 65 roses. He does not mix his roses and perennials. His excellent perennial bed borders the fence. Here he has some of the rarer perennials, including scabiosa. Many of Schwarz's roses are several years old. He is not hasty about deciding on new roses. He wisely investigates a rose's over-all performance before he selects it for his garden. Good foliage and resistance to disease are two of the qualities he looks for. Schwarz (First National Bank) does all the work in the garden himself. Yes, his wife picks the flowers. Gardening takes all his spare time and then some, he admits with a grin. He no longer provides winter protection for his roses. Finds they do just as well without it. (Staff Photo)

Garden Gossip

We thought Knollwood Village at dogwood time was our favorite Circleville area sight. But you'll never see a brighter, gaylier little section than Sunshine street at rose time. Almost every house either has rose bushes in the front yard or roses climbing over porches or fences. It's so colorful it looks almost like a stage set. Try to see it this weekend before the roses are gone.

Tom Brannon, 1053 Sunshine St., has several tree roses. A tree or standard rose is a rose bush shaped like a little tree. Brannon's were in full bloom Tuesday. Tree roses are useful in rose gardens to accent a low growing bed of roses.

The picket fence at Bernard Trecker's was a pleasant sight this week. There's nothing more eye-catching than blaze climber on white pickets.

According to Mrs. Orion King, W. High St., you can tell a blaze climber from a Paul's scarlet climber because the Blaze has a slightly larger bloom.

Blaze, of course, is ever blooming. No matter the season it will always have a rose or two in blossom.

G. H. Armstrong, Route 1, Laurelville, has completed his third planting of gladioli. He plants the corns at three different dates so he will have a succession of bloom. He believes if you can get your glads planted before June 10 you will be perfectly safe, even if there is an early September frost. Armstrong denies that he is a Gladiolus authority. He has planted 1,500 glads this year. He is eagerly waiting for his 500 new bulbs to bloom. He just likes to grow glads, never shows them, never labels them.

The fence at the C. F. Replogles is covered with pink roses. Small wonder landscape men urge their clients to use lots of one variety when they want to create a picture. The Replogles have used the same pink variety over and over.

When the M. E. Noggles attended the rose convention they rubbed elbows with the big wheels in rosemood. They met and talked with Dr. Cynthia Wescott the noted "plant doctor"; Walter Lammers, the distinguished hybridizer who is responsible for such beauties as Charlotte Armstrong, Chrysler Imperial, Queen Elizabeth; Richard Thompson, co-author with Helen Van Pelt Wilson, well known garden writer, and Eugene Boerner, rose hybridist for Jackson and Perkins.

It's interesting to note that the Columbus Rose Club is strictly a men's organization. It is one of the oldest of the rose clubs. They allow the wives of members to help with the work but that's as far as it goes.

A lavender Pinocchio rose was blooming in the Christian Schwarz

WATT STREET ROSE GARDEN — Lewis Jenkins, 344 Watt St., has a rose garden in which some of Circleville's most beautiful roses are grown. Jenkins is a disciple of the organic gardening cult. He mixes soil and compost when he plants his roses, never uses commercial fertilizer, rarely sprays. His climbing Peace rose was a marvel of beauty. He has another climber, Parade, which blooms all during the summer. It's Mrs. Jenkins' favorite. Mrs. Jenkins, by the way, is a valuable assistant. She rakes the leaves for compost and snips off the dead bloom. Often she mounts a ladder to reach the blossoms on the big climbers. (Staff Photo) garden. Schwarz claims it is almost ten years old and a great favorite of his. It is a true lavender floribunda. He is well pleased with its consistent performance.

Roy Waddington, Route 1, Kingston, who kept bee hives for many years, says it is not true that he had never been stung by a bee. In fact he laughed when asked about this story. He says he's been stung hundreds of times. However, even when he has been stung as many as 25 times at once, he never felt any ill effects. He says it hurt at the time.

Miss Anna Dresbach, S. Pick-

(by actual count). About ten years ago she planted her first dozen lily bulbs. She is delighted by the way they have increased. She picked over 75 Tuesday for bou-

There's nothing like coming from the same pod if you're a rose. Dean Collins and Queen Elizabeth, two of the most popular roses of all time came from the same pod according to Walter Lammers, hybridist. He should know. It was his pod.

Frank McVickers who has just completed a successful season with his iris is now getting ready for his day lilies. According to friends he has a most extensive daylily garden and is quite an authority on them.

H. O. Caldwell, rose fancier near Lockbourne, has a mighty pretty garden this year. But he had tremendous rose loss from winter kill. He lost all of 140 roses. He plans to give his roses more winter protection after this. The Caldwells generally have open house at rose time. This year, however, they are not planning one. Their roses, which total about 500, are "satisfactory". Mrs. Caldwell says their building project is "keeping them too busy for the rose garden open house. "But come and see the garden", she said.

... On the Other Hand

In 1937 an amusing garden book was published. It was called "Adam's Profession and Its Conquest by Eve". And the garden club ladies took quite a panning.

Gentle ridicule, however, failed to stop the ladies in their newly aroused interest in the pursuit of gardening. Tooth and tongs, they went after the business of raising flowers. They joined clubs. They put on flower shows. They took to the art of arranging. In fact, from the publicity and fanfare, one might think the ladies had taken over entirely.

Not so! Today's garden page is respectfully dedicated to Circleville men and their gardens. Quietly, easily and with amazing success, the men have gone about their gardening.

Men garden for enjoyment. . . plain, simple enjoyment. Some enjoy growing flowers in order to have bouquets for the church altar each Sunday. Some grow them because they like basking in the color and fragrance of a beautiful flower garden. . . and it's against the rules to pick.

TWO MEN gardeners successfully combined rose growing and dog raising — a seemingly impossible feat!

But one thing's for sure! The men garden because they want to, because it's fun and not in one instance because they felt that they had to have flowers to be a big wheel in the garden club.

Few of them expressed a desire to exhibit flowers at a show. "Too much like work!" one gardener said. Few of them showed any interest in a garden club for men.

But to the man, their gardens were under control. Not one place did we see where the weeds had gotten the best of the flowers. (The garden editor is their clients to use lots of one variety when they want to create a picture. The Replodge has used the same pink variety over and over.

When the M. E. Noggles attended the rose convention they rubbed elbows with the big wheels in rosedom. They met and talked with Dr. Cynthia Wescott the noted "plant doctor"; Walter Lammers, the distinguished hybridizer who is responsible for such beauties as Charlotte Armstrong, Chrysler Imperial, Queen Elizabeth; Richard Thompson, co-author with Helen Van Pelt Wilson, well known garden writer, and Eugene Boerner, rose hybridist for Jackson and Perkins.

It's interesting to note that the Columbus Rose Club is strictly a men's organization. It is one of the oldest of the rose clubs. They allow the wives of members to help with the work but that's as far as it goes.

A lavender Pinocchio rose was blooming in the Christian Schwarz

always sympathetic to a garden in such a dilemma)

Men garden with a quiet ease. Their approach is scientific. Nobody seems to be biting off more than he could chew.

Do they have help from their wives? Some of them do. Lots of help! Almost all the wives were given the special task of picking off the withered blossoms — a task the men seemed to dislike. One man had turned over the whole garden to his wife. He dreamed up the idea and planted the roses — now it's up to her. She is enjoying it, too.

UNDoubtedly the favorite flower with the men in Circleville is roses. They are, in short, rose-crazy. They give gladly of their time to spray, mulch, water and fertilize their plants. Pictured are just a few of the men gardeners in Circleville and their pampered darlings of the backyard.

So today we women give you the men and their gardens. We dedicate the page with respect — and with envy.

WATT STREET ROSE GARDEN — Lewis Jenkins, 344 Watt St., has a rose garden in which some of Circleville's most beautiful roses are grown. Jenkins is a disciple of the organic gardening cult. He mixes soil and compost when he plants his roses, never uses commercial fertilizer, rarely sprays. His climbing Peace rose was a marvel of beauty. He has another climber, Parade, which blooms all during the summer. It's Mrs. Jenkins' favorite. Mrs. Jenkins, by the way, is a valuable assistant. She rakes the leaves for compost and snips off the dead bloom. Often she mounts a ladder to reach the blossoms on the big climbers. (Staff Photo) garden. Schwarz claims it is almost ten years old and a great favorite of his. It is a true lavender floribunda. He is well pleased with its consistent performance.

Roy Waddington, Route 1, Kingston, who kept bee hives for many years, says it is not true that he had never been stung by a bee. In fact he laughed when asked about this story. He says he's been stung hundreds of times. However, even when he has been stung as many as 25 times at once, he never felt any ill effects. He says it hurt at the time.

Miss Anna Dresbach, S. Pickaway St., has 149 lilies blooming

(by actual count). About ten years ago she planted her first dozen lily bulbs. She is delighted by the way they have increased. She picked over 75 Tuesday for bouquets.

There's nothing like coming from the same pod if you're a rose. Dean Collins and Queen Elizabeth, two of the most popular roses of all time came from the same pod according to Walter Lammers, hybridist. He should know. It was his pod.

Frank McVickers who has just completed a successful season with his iris is now getting ready for his day lilies. According to friends he has a most extensive daylily garden and is quite an authority on them.

H. O. Caldwell, rose fancier near Lockbourne, has a mighty pretty garden this year. But he had tremendous rose loss from winter kill. He lost all of 140 roses. He plans to give his roses more winter protection after this. The Caldwell's generally have open house at rose time. This year, however, they are not planning one. Their roses, which total about 500, are "satisfactory". Mrs. Caldwell says their building project is keeping them too busy for the rose garden open house. "But come and see the garden", she said.

Tommy Bolt Holds Lead in National Open

Gary Player Is Stroke Behind; Stranahan Lags by 2 Strokes

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Tommy Bolt today set out to hold his lead in the National Open golf championship against two unexpected rivals while the men whose names were banded about a few days ago as likely winners looked on from the sidelines.

The 39-year-old Bolt Friday had a double bogey six that marred his second straight round of 71. As 55 survivors of the field which numbered 2,150 original entries and 162 starters plunged into today's final 36-hole marathon, the players to beat lined up this way: Bolt at 142; Gary Player, the 22-year-old South African who is the tournament's only par-breaker so far, at 143 and wealthy 33-year-old Frank Stranahan at 144.

Missing for the first time in this stage in 18 National Opens was Sam Snead, who never has succeeded in winning this title. Cary Middlecoff, two-time champion who shared the favorite's role, barely escaped elimination with 154. Four-time winner Ben Hogan, suffering from an injured left hand, made a brief bid for the lead but wound up six strokes behind at 148.

Dick Mayer, the defending champion, was farther back at 150 and Ken Venturi, brilliant leader of the younger generation of touring golfers, had 152.

Tied for fourth place at 146 were Julius Boros, 1952 Open champion and one of the first-day leaders and two Oklahomans, former Amateur champion Charlie Coe and Labron Harris, 50-year-old Oklahoma State University coach.

Snead still had an outside chance to qualify after he shot an 80 Friday for a 155 total. But he paid off his caddy and locker room boy and didn't wait to find out.

Departing with him were such players as Gene Sarazen, twice winner of the Open, 1954 champion Ed Furgol, 1955 champion Jack Fleck and the current amateur champion, Hillman Robbins.

New Indian Shortstop OK In First Game

WASHINGTON (AP) — Billy Hunter's performance at shortstop Friday night made the Cleveland Indians' trade with Kansas City Thursday look good.

In his debut in a Cleveland uniform, Hunter, who had batted only .155 with the Athletics, got four hits, including two doubles, in five trips to the plate. The Indians trounced the Washington Senators 10-1 in the opener of a four-game series.

Hunter, who came to the Tribe in a trade for Chico Carrasquel, also had a stolen base, scored two runs and flawlessly handled seven chances in the field. The scrappy shortstop's four hits raised his season's batting average to .206.

His contributions, plus home runs by Billy Moran, J. W. Porter and Minnie Minoso, which drove in eight runs, made things fairly easy for Ray Narleski, who registered his eighth victory against four defeats.

The righthander didn't need too much offensive help. He limited the Senators to four hits, fanned eight batters and walked only one. One of the hits was a fifth-inning homer by Jim Lemon, which kept Narleski from getting a shutout. The others were singles.

The Indians scored two unearned runs in the first inning off Chuck Stobbs, who also was the victim of three-run homers by Moran and Porter in the sixth and seventh innings, respectively. Minoso's two-run homer was hit off reliever Al Cicotte in the ninth.

Rowland, Adkins, Strawser Lead CHS Baseball Squad

Final statistics reveal that Don Rowland was the leading hitter and Joe Adkins the top pitcher for Circleville High School's South Central Ohio League's Championship baseball team this year.

Rowland smacked the ball at a .389 clip, collecting 14 hits in 36 times at bat. Adkins accomplished a polished pitching record by winning five and losing none.

Although Rowland was the leading hitter by average, Harry Strawser dominated most batting statistics.

Strawser batted .388, just one point behind Rowland, led the team in runs-batted-in with 18, led in triples and doubles with three and four respectively and smacked one homerun.

ADKINS compiled an amazing pitching record by hurling 39 1-3 innings without an earned run being scored against him. His string of five wins included a five-inning no-hitter and two two-inning.

Adkins hurled 40 1-3 innings, allowed only 14 hits, fanned 75 and walked 18, marking one of the best records ever turned in by a Circleville High School pitcher.

Other interesting statistics reveal that Mike Hosler finished his high school career with a batting average of .360. He didn't have a season in which he did not hit at least .325.

First baseman Bill Purcell led fielding percentages for the second straight year. This season he had only one error in 96 fielding chances.

Outfielder Dick Smith hit only 156, but was on base 17 times through walks and probably was the best bunter on the squad.

Due to some fine pitching, the CHS outfielders had fewer chances than any team ever coached by Dick Boyd. The three-man pitching staff of Adkins, Rowland and Hosler have a combined school record of 40 wins and only 13 losses.

HOSLER finished his career as a pitcher with 21 wins and eight losses. Rowland has a 13-3 record and Adkins is 6-2. Adkins and Rowland will be seniors come September.

Over half the batters who faced Circleville pitching this year were moved down by strikeouts.

Look Who Is Hitting Now For Bosox — Terrible Ted

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jackie Jensen and Dick Gernert have been slugging the home runs, and Frank Malzone has been battling with the bat, but look who's finally started to hit for the bustling Boston Red Sox — a guy named Ted Williams.

The Big Guy, who last year won the batting crown at an unlikely 39 with an equally unlikely .388 average, has been having it tough so far. But Friday night he cracked a pair of singles, drove in two runs and scored one while reaching his percentage high — .295—of the season as the Red Sox tightened their grip on second place with a 9-3 victory over Kansas City.

That left Boston eight games behind the American League leading New York Yankees, who were beaten 4-2 by the Detroit Tigers. Cleveland defeated fourth place Washington 10-1, and Baltimore and the Chicago White Sox ended a 5-5 tie at 14 innings because of a Baltimore curfew.

In the National League, the first place Milwaukee Braves retained a 1 1/2 game edge by beating St. Louis 2-0 in a game held to six innings by rain. Second place San Francisco ended its losing string at five with a 6-1 victory

Final statistics reveal that Don Rowland was the leading hitter and Joe Adkins the top pitcher for Circleville High School's South Central Ohio League's Championship baseball team this year.

Rowland smacked the ball at a .389 clip, collecting 14 hits in 36 at bats. Adkins accomplished a polished pitching record by winning five and losing none.

Although Rowland was the leading hitter by average, Harry Strawser dominated most batting statistics.

Strawser batted .388, just one point behind Rowland, led the team in runs-batted-in with 18, led in triples and doubles with three and four respectively and smacked one homer.

ADKINS compiled an amazing pitching record by hurling 39 1-3

innings without an earned run being scored against him. His string of five wins included a five-inning no-hitter and two 1-0 shutouts.

Adkins hurled 40 1-3 innings, allowed only 14 hits, fanned 75 and walked 18, marking one of the best records ever turned in by a Circleville High School pitcher.

Other interesting statistics reveal that Mike Hosler finished his high school career with a batting average of .360. He didn't have a season in which he did not hit at least .325.

First baseman Bill Purcell led fielding percentages for the second straight year. This season he had only one error in 96 fielding chances.

Outfielder Dick Smith hit only 156, but was on base 17 times through walks and probably was the best bunter on the squad.

Due to some fine pitching, the CHS outfielders had fewer chances than any team ever coached by Dick Boyd. The three-man pitching staff of Adkins, Rowland and Hosler have a combined school record of 40 wins and only 13 losses.

HOSLER finished his career as a pitcher with 21 wins and eight losses. Rowland has a 13-3 record and Adkins is 6-2. Adkins and Rowland will be seniors come September.

Over half the batters who faced Circleville pitching this year were moved down by strikeouts.

Baseballers Meet Today

Managers and players participating in the Kiwanis Kid Baseball program this year will meet at Ted Lewis Park today starting at 1 p. m.

Roger Bennington, program director, said Pony Leaguers would meet at the main diamond at 1 p. m., the Little League at 1:30 p. m. and the Mosquito League at 2 p. m.

Bennington urged all managers to attend. Balls and bats will be distributed and caps for players will be fitted.

Other points to be covered included selection of playing areas and practice schedules, the director said.

Jaycee Plan Golf Tourney

The local Jaycees Junior Golf Tournament will get under way at 9 a. m. Monday at the Pickaway Country Club.

The annual match will feature 18-hole medal play with low score taking the prize. First and second places here will be eligible for the state Jaycee tourney which will be held in Delaware in July.

Entered in this year's competition is Brent Bell, last year's local defending champion. The steady golfer will be out to defend his crown against some stern opponents.

Other entries are Jimmy Patrick, Tom Bevins, Harold Bevins, Bill Morehart, Dave Caudill and Tim Dickenson.

The entries are requested to sign up in the club's pro shop.

Landis Appointed As No. 2 Czar

COLUMBUS (AP) — Paul Landis has been appointed assistant state high school athletic commissioner. He succeeds W. J. McConnell who has been promoted to commissioner effective Nov. 1.

Landis now is superintendent of physical recreation, health and safety for the Ohio Department of Education. His appointment is effective Aug. 15.

McConnell's appointment as commissioner to succeed the retiring H. W. Emswiler was announced several weeks ago.

Hagge, Suggs Pace Tourney

MARBLEHEAD, Mass. (AP) — Weather and stamina were vital factors today as Marlene Hagge and Louise Suggs stood 1-2 going into a double round at the $12,000 Round Robin Women's Invitation Golf Tournament.

Mrs. Hagge maintained her advantage with a plus 31-point score followed by Miss Suggs who gained 20 Friday for a plus 26 and second place.

"I play well in the rain," Marlene said after informed scattered showers were forecast for the grueling 36-hole test today at Tedesco Country Club's 6,147-yard, par 73 course.

Look Who Is Hitting Now For Bosox — Terrible Ted

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jackie Jensen and Dick Gernert have been slugging the home runs, and Frank Malzone has been battling with the bat, but look who's finally started to hit for the bustling Boston Red Sox — a guy named Ted Williams.

The Big Guy, who last year won the batting crown at an unlikely 39 with an equally unlikely .388 average, has been having it tough so far. But Friday night he cracked a pair of singles, drove in two runs and scored one while reaching his percentage high — .295—of the season as the Red Sox tightened their grip on second place with a 9-3 victory over Kansas City.

That left Boston eight games behind the American League leading New York Yankees, who were beaten 4-2 by the Detroit Tigers. Cleveland defeated fourth place Washington 10-1, and Baltimore and the Chicago White Sox ended a 5-5 tie at 14 innings because of a Baltimore curfew.

In the National League, the first place Milwaukee Braves retained a 1 1/2 game edge by beating St. Louis 2-0 in a game held to six innings by rain. Second place San Francisco ended its losing string at five with a 6-1 victory over Philadelphia. Los Angeles defeated Pittsburgh 5-4. Cincinnati and the Chicago Cubs were idled by rain.

In defeating the Yankees, the Tigers won their third in four shots under new manager Bill Norman. It was Bobby Shantz' third consecutive defeat.

Billy Hoelt won it for a 5-5 record, but needed relief help. He retired the first six he faced, then gave up Mickey Mantle's 12th homer for a 1-1 tie in the fourth.

Actor George Reeves Finds He's Stuck as 'Superman'

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"It's like Hopalong Cassidy trying to get an acting job in white tie and tails." This was George Reeves' lament. He's an actor and a good one. He ought to be, after 20 years at it. He has been in the movies 21 years.

So why isn't he working? He's Superman, that's why. "The producers wouldn't give me a job," he said. "They'd take one look at me and say it was impossible."

This freeze on his acting career has driven him behind the camera. That may be the best thing that ever happened to him.

"I took over as director on the last 13 Superman segments we made last fall," he remarked. "I did it as sort of a chance, but I was surprised to find out how much I knew. I suppose you ought to absorb some knowledge after being in the business as long as I have."

Now I'm enthused about doing more. I'm forming a production company and we plan to make a couple of science fiction features back-to-back. The trick stuff should come easy. We've done ev-everything imaginable in the Superman series."

George certainly must have known that Superman would blight his outside acting career. I asked him why he undertook it.

"I was hungry," he explained simply.

It's not quite as simple as that. A reliable performer, George has done well over the years, although not always spectacularly. But when he returned from the war, he was just another in the small army of actors trying to rebuild their careers. He had a contract at Paramount but got lost there.

He went to New York in the late 40s and prospered in live TV. But when Superman came along eight years ago, he succumbed.

His fate isn't as black as it seems. He gets "perpetual residuals," which means that he is paid every time the series is played. And it is being played all the time. He boasted that it is the No. 2 daytime show in audience ratings here, and is appearing in seven foreign countries.

O'Neill Books Series of 11 'Celebrations'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. C. William O'Neill says he'll concentrate the early part of his reelection campaign on a series of 11 "Governor's Day Celebrations" across the state.

Buffet dinners will be offered, and tickets will be sold, but they will not be fund-raising affairs, O'Neill said Thursday.

The celebrations begin June 27 and end Aug. 8. Later campaign plans have not been completed, the governor said. He listed this campaign schedule:

June 27, Warren County Fairgrounds, Lebanon; July 10, Ross County Fairgrounds, Chillicothe; July 11, Ohio State Fairgrounds, Columbus; July 16, Tuscora Park, New Philadelphia; July 17, Athens County Fairgrounds, Athens; July 23, Cedar Point; July 25, Maumee Downs, Maumee; July 29, Lakewood Beach, Urbana; July 31, Muskingum County Fairgrounds, Zanesville; Aug. 6, place to be announced; Aug. 8, Riverside Park, Findlay.

Lie Detector Test Faces Accused Rapist

DELAWARE — Fred Cooks, 37, charged with two counts of rape, will be taken to Columbus today to take a lie detector test.

The Negro, who is charged with raping a 24-year-old mother and her 18-year-old baby-sitter Wednesday, has denied the crime since his arrest late Thursday night.

Cooks is accused of raping three women—one of them twice. The 24-year-old woman attacked Wednesday was also assaulted in December. A 58-year-old woman identified him as the man who assaulted her last April.

Singing Championship Finals Drawing Near

COLUMBUS — Ten barbershop quartets will vie tonight for the international championship of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America. No Ohio quartets are represented.

The 10, including one quartet from Canada, are survivors of 40 which entered the competition Thursday. The field was first cut to 20, then the 10 emerged victorious on Friday night's competition.

Editor Lauds Lawyer

CLEVELAND — Lawyers are the first line warriors in the modern battle for human rights, Nat Howard, editor of the Cleveland News, told the 97 graduates of the Cleveland Marshall Law School at the school's 59th annual commencement Friday night.

Actress Suzy Parker Tells About Her Secret Marriage

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"I've been in love seriously only once. I fell in love with him when I fell in love with Paris."

These words, spoken when Suzy Parker was film making here, shed some light on her secret marriage to French journalist Count Pierre de la Salle.

In New York Wednesday night, De La Salle, through an attorney, issued a statement saying they are happily married, and have been since 1955. He said "it was Hollywood press agents who suggested the marriage."

Miss Parker registered at a St.

grandmother was a deputy sheriff who could flick a cigarette ash with a bullet at 20 paces.

Reared in Pomona Springs, Fla., she followed her famous sister, Dorian Leigh, into New York modeling. But she hated the tedious work and went to Europe as a photographer. She returned to modeling only when broke — when the Treasury Department cracked down on her. She had refused to pay income taxes while abroad because "taxation without representation is tyranny."

Suzy who is 25, has strong views. Such as: Drinking—"I believe the senses were created to be enjoyed, and drinking dulls them."

Smoking—"Most women smoke to give them something to do with their hands."

Suzy Parker—"I talk too much for most men."

Hobby Turns to Business For Pony Sale Firm Owners

By J. I. SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

Recently Pickaway County Pony Sales, Inc., a comparatively new and unheard of corporation in the county held its most successful, both profit and attendance-wise, pony and horse sale.

The sale was held May 23-24 at the County Fairgrounds with approximately 1,800 to 2,000 people attending and a total sales of $28,668 for a profit of more than $2,000 for the corporation.

The history of the company dates back to 1953 when James Ford, 512 S. Court St. an avid pony enthusiast, pony auctioneer and promoter, decided to form a pony sale company which would hold auctions twice a year, in the spring and the fall. Ford got the idea from his travels around the midwest, witnessing successful auctions attended by thousands of pony hobbists.

At his first auction, Ford had 22 ponies and five horses to offer the 50 or 60 people on hand. There were few if any persons at the sale from out of the county. In the five years since its origin the auction has grown in coverage and interest until it scored its record mark this spring when 265 ponies and 48 horses were sold, not considering the many saddles and pony supplies that were offered.

FORD was not discouraged by his first year's attendance. Instead, he began advertising his sale in the local and area newspapers and in the American Shetland Pony Journal, read by all pony fans throughout the country. Proving this, is the fact that sales here this spring were made to persons from Winston Salem, N. C., New York State, Kentucky, West Virginia, Tennessee, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Canada. Ford estimated 50 per cent of his attendance came from out-of-state.

Last year Ford decided to incorporate and sold shares to three men. Part owners now are Emerson Brown, Route 2, Ashville, assistant manager, and treasurer, L. L. Melvin, Route 2, Circleville, and Russell Costlow, Ashville.

At the spring sale the highest price brought by any one pony was $360. The highest at any two-day sale was last fall when Ford sold one for $1,710. The top price brought for any pony in the world was $56,000 last fall in a Oklahoma sale. The pony was naturally the outstanding of its kind and was named "Topper".

Features which make for a top pony are the buyer's desire and extent of his hobby, the special breeding, fine bones, confirmation, shape and the grade. Another feature for a top selling pony is the smaller the pony the better. To be classed as a pony, the animal must be under 56 inches in height. Height is measured from the back of its neck to the bottom of its throat.

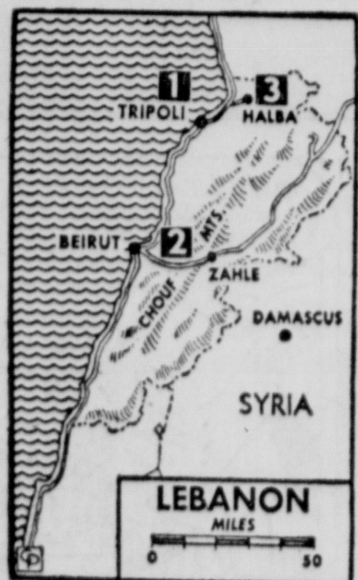

Any pony sale company is consigned the ponies and horses.

Auto Firm Loses Tax Claim Case

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Board of Tax Appeals Friday found the Steel City Chevrolet Co. of Youngstown over a period of 4½ years collected $12,322 in sales taxes which it never paid to the state. The board upheld previous assessments by state Tax Commissioner Stanley J. Bowers. It also approved $615 in penalties Bowers had assessed.

The sales taxes represent the difference between taxes quoted car buyers on original orders and those listed later on invoices the buyers received.

Bowers had contended the sales were made at the time the original orders were assigned and the board agreed.

UN WATCHING—Centers of strife in Lebanon are Tripoli (1), where the fighting first erupted, the rugged Chouf mountains (2), and Haifa (3). The government forces are trying to prevent the rebels in Tripoli from linking up with the Haifa forces, who have an open line of communication with Syria. In the Chouf mountains, the rebels are trying to cut the highway leading to Beirut to stop up food supplies from east. (Central Press) ses to sell by their owners. The auction company takes 3 percent of the sale price as its commission and charges a $5 entry fee to cover feed and bedding. During the sale, Ford sold six 12-month-old consigned ponies for $610 each.

A PROFITABLE HOBBY—Pictured above is "Bobby", owned by Emerson Brown, Route 2, Ashville, and held by the president of the Pickaway County Pony Sales, Inc., James Ford, 512 S. Court St. Bobby is a pony stallion that is more than just a playmate for Brown's children. This outstanding pony is used for stud purposes. With some of the prices ranging $300 and over for a single pony this little animal earns its living and more for pony enthusiast Brown, who is assistant manager of Pony Sale, Inc. The picture was taken on the Brown farm, at which approximately 50 ponies are stabled.

At present sorrels are the best sellers and followed by such as bays, brown and blacks. The horses sold at these sales are becoming such an item that the state has levied a 3 per cent luxury tax on them.

Ford doesn't want the community to get the idea that ponies for riding by children are always this expensive. The average pony may be purchased for $125 to $150. The cost of stabling a pony runs approximately $1 a week. A medium-priced saddle runs $35 plus other essentials.

The largest pony raiser in the county is Lloyd Melvin, who specializes in silver dapples. Other pony enthusiasts include Ed Wallace, county state representative; Clarence Wolf, 1021 S. Court St.; Harry Brown, Route 1, Ashville, an uncle of Emerson's; Chester Blue, local furniture dealer, and Bob Cave, Stoutsville.

Pickaway County Pony Sales, Inc. is just another of the many hobbies that has been turned to a profitable organization for a few far sighted persons who had the initiative to try something novel. Pony Sales, Inc. took the attitude, if it can be profitable in other parts of the midwest it can be worthwhile in Pickaway County.

SHE ESCAPED FROM YEMEN HAREM—Mrs. Rita Nasir, 25, and her children arrive at Liverpool station, London, happy that their Arabian Nights saga is behind them. To wit: When she was 17 she married Ahmed Nasir, an Arabian electrical engineer, in a Moslem ceremony in Cardiff, Wales. Time went on, and he was offered a job as an instructor in Yemen. Two weeks after they got there, palace guards came and took her to the 68-year-old Yemen king's harem—two wives, 200 concubines. "He was very nice to me," she said. New Car Sales Now Firming Up

But Manufacturers Hold Output Schedule

DETROIT (AP)—New car sales continued to firm up in the last few weeks.

Improved sales however, have not influenced car makers to increase production schedules. June is expected to bring about 340,000 cars from the assembly plants. That would give a six-month total of 2,244,687 cars against 3,370,938 in comparable 1957.

The figures indicate this year's total new car sales probably will not go above 4,400,000 U. S.-built units, plus about 275,000 imported cars. The estimate is based on expectations that total assemblies will be about the same as retail deliveries.

New model changeover shutdowns probably will start in July for several makers in the medium price field. Buick reportedly will be first to complete its 1958 model run.

So far there have been only guesses as to when new model production will get under way. Generally it is assumed the shutdowns are to be extended to insure an orderly cleanup of outgoing models.

Scheduled July shutdowns further will reduce production. A substantial part of the industry will be building 1959 models in September. Just when the new cars will go on sale has not been disclosed.

The earlier shutdowns suggest some makes will be on sale in the latter part of September and virtually all makes by mid-October.

Retail sales of 4,400,000 cars this year would make it the poorest year the industry has experienced since 1952. In that year sales numbered 4,158,394. In no year since have sales fallen below 5½ million.

Sewing Contest Judge Says Ordeal Is Nerve-Wracking

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

If a wave of nervous breakdowns develops among fashion designers and editors soon, the reason may be the growing responsibility of judging the numerous home sewing and student design contests, which pay off in astronomical figures.

Nowadays the best ways for a woman to get rich quick are to go on a television quiz program or enter a baking or sewing contest—and as the prizes grow bigger, so does the nervousness of the judges.

Hannah Troy, New York dress designer who acted as a judge in the recent $125,000 Sew-Off, was practically in a state of collapse as she congratulated the grand prize winner, Mrs. Paul Edward Bell, of Lakewood, Ohio.

"I didn't sleep a wink all night," confided Mrs. Troy afterward. "Just imagine, having to pick one contestant to win all that money! I think it's harder on the judges than the contestants."

I could sympathize. A few days before, I had been one of three judges of a "Young Homemaker" sewing contest, which paid off with a $5,000 first prize.

Faced with racks of dresses, suits and coats which had won regional contests before being sent to New York, all three of us had an attack of stage fright. What if we were influenced by personal taste? What if we overlooked some important detail? The other two judges were Miss Eloise Johnson, of Chicago, home economist and sewing expert, and Miss Virginia Steele, an editor of Mademoiselle magazine.

Before we were score cards. Each outfit was graded on fashion, suitability of fabric, trimmings, finish, sewing technique and suitability to the wearer. So many points for this, so many for that. We worked harder than any college freshman on a final exam. When all the score cards were compared, we found the job was simpler than we had thought. All three came out with almost identical ratings. But it had been a gruelling day.

Conductor Dave Rose Bared As Steam Engine Enthusiast

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—When you see Dave Rose conducting his smooth music for the Red Skelton TV show, you'd scarcely suspect that he's a steam engine addict.

The suave conductor-composer has it bad. He not only has one of the world's largest collections of miniature steam engines; he even has a steam train that runs around his San Fernando Valley home.

"Every Saturday, I blow the whistle and the kids come from all over the neighborhood," he said.

When Dave clicked as a composer 20 years ago, he began showing the profit into steam. He collected engines from all over the world and developed his own miniature train, a knee-high affair that will pull 150 people.

"Disneyland started right here," Dave said proudly as he surveyed the track in his back yard. "Years ago, Walt Disney came here to see my train because he was thinking of getting one of his own."

You know it's got to be a mania for Dave because it isn't deductible. Out here, celebrities hardly ever put so much money into something unless it earns a profit or an income tax deduction.

"I sometimes use the train for publicity," he explained, "but otherwise, the expense is pure outgo."

"But I think it's worth it. There's nothing I like better than to get up a head of steam or take an engine apart."

The diversion provides welcome relief from the rigors of Dave's musical life. A perfectionist, he composes and arranges most of his own material. Besides the Skelton show, he does the Shower

NOT TEMPERAMENT—Maria Callas, opera singer known for her temperament, gracefully poses in street clothes outside London's Covent Garden Opera House. Miss Callas remained in a peaceful mood all through the performance of "I Puritani," which was presented for an audience that included Queen Elizabeth II. (UPI)

Sewing Contest Judge Says Ordeal Is Nerve-Wracking

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

If a wave of nervous breakdowns develops among fashion designers and editors soon, the reason may be the growing responsibility of judging the numerous home sewing and student design contests, which pay off in astronomical figures.

Nowadays the best ways for a woman to get rich quick are to go on a television quiz program or enter a baking or sewing contest—and as the prizes grow bigger, so does the nervousness of the judges.

Hannah Troy, New York dress designer who acted as a judge in the recent $25,000 Sew-Off, was practically in a state of collapse as she congratulated the grand prize winner, Mrs. Paul Edward Bell, of Lakewood, Ohio.

"I didn't sleep a wink all night," she confided. "I was afraid. Just imagine, having to pick one contestant to win all that money! I think it's harder on the judges than the contestants."

I could sympathize. A few days before, I had been one of three judges of a "Young Homemaker" sewing contest, which paid off with a $5,000 first prize.

Faced with racks of dresses, suits and coats which had won regional contests before being sent to New York, all three of us had an attack of stage fright. What if we were influenced by personal taste? What if we overlooked some important detail? The other two judges were Miss Eloise Johnson, of Chicago, home economist and sewing expert, and Miss Virginia Steele, an editor of Mademoiselle magazine.

Before we were score cards. Each outfit was graded on fashion, suitability of fabric, trimmings, finish, sewing technique and suitability to the wearer. So many points for this, so many for that. We worked harder than any college freshman on a final exam. When all the score cards were compared, we found the job was simpler than we had thought. All three came out with almost identical ratings. But it had been a grueling day.

Conductor Dave Rose Bared As Steam Engine Enthusiast

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—When you see Dave Rose conducting his smooth music for the Red Skelton TV show, you'd scarcely suspect that he's a steam engine addict.

The suave conductor-composer has it bad. He not only has one of the world's largest collections of miniature steam engines; he even has a steam train that runs around his San Fernando Valley home.

"Every Saturday, I blow the whistle and the kids come from all over the neighborhood," he said.

When Dave clicked as a composer 20 years ago, he began shoving the profit into steam. He collected engines from all over the world and developed his own miniature train, a knee-high affair that will pull 150 people.

"Disneyland started right here," Dave said proudly as he surveyed the track in his back yard. "Years ago, Walt Disney came here to see my train because he was thinking of getting one of his own."

You know it's got to be a mania for Dave because it isn't deductible. Out here, celebrities hardly ever put so much money into something unless it earns a profit or an income tax deduction.

"I sometimes use the train for publicity," he explained, "but otherwise, the expense is pure outgo."

"But I think it's worth it. There's nothing I like better than to get up a head of steam or take an engine apart."

The diversion provides welcome relief from the rigors of Dave's musical life. A perfectionist, he composes and arranges most of his own material. Besides the Skelton show, he does the Shower of Stars and other programs. His record albums are best sellers and he sometimes does a movie score. Then he keeps up a steady schedule of concerts. This week he was in Portland, Ore., conducting at the Rose Festival. Today he leaves for Europe to scout the possibilities of doing some concerts over there this summer.
